Phone Volunteer Committee: Send Help

Palm Beach County Intergroup provides a 24 hour hotline to the sick and suffering alcoholic. This hot line fields calls that range from people that have never been involved in AA before and are looking for help to people that have been sober for decades from other areas that are looking for meetings in our area. Volunteering to answer these phone calls is extremely rewarding work and can be one to the closest things to the twelve step work that was being done in AA's beginning. If you would like to get involved please contact the phone hot line Chair David C. at phonevolunteer@aa-palmbeachcounty.org. We have several shifts that are not filled or have people in them that have been doing it for years and would like to rotate out. We are in need of your help. ▲

The Day I Made 100 Pancakes

Reprint from Grapevine, January, 1994

I opened the old, wooden screen door, and to my surprise, discovered I had entered a kitchen. It was long and narrow, and the heat hit me like a wall. Bending over an open oven door, a guy in cut-off shorts and a polka-dot bandana hollered, "Hi there! My name is Ray. Can you short-order cook?"

That was probably the last question I expected anybody to ask me. My mental defenses immediately revved into high gear. I recovered enough to realize that even if I could short-order cook—which I couldn't—cooking was not what I had in mind. I promptly answered, "No."

Straightening up from the oven, wiping his brow, and looking directly at me, Ray then asked, "Well, can you make pancakes?"

I was cornered. Anybody in Alcoholics Anonymous knows that getting "volunteered" in AA is a common occurrence. I couldn't, in good conscience, say no twice.

Before I could figure out how it had come about—or how to get out of it—I found myself standing at a long counter, holding a metal mixing bowl, and reading the directions on the biggest box of pancake mix I had ever seen. The box must have weighed fifty pounds. The extent of the mixing instructions was: "Add water." I felt a headache coming on.

Where was I? I was at the Blue Ridge Club. It was 8:30 on a beautiful Sunday morning in May. High in the Blue Ridge mountains, surrounded by trees and nature in all its glory, stands an old clapboard country church that is now used as an AA meeting place.

It was my first time there, and I'd been wanting to come since I learned of the meeting three years ago. I was told that the club served breakfast on Sundays and afterward had a meeting. During the two-hour drive, I could hardly wait to get there. I was really looking forward to a morning of relaxation—eating a hearty breakfast, enjoying the rural landscape, meeting new people, and being part of a "country-style" AA meeting. Cooking, however, was not on my agenda.

So now, standing in the hot kitchen, trying valiantly to tackle the pancake task, it all seemed terribly anticlimactic. I was struggling not to be disappointed and angry.

"Misery loves company" could not have been truer words. I was not the only one who had been "volunteered." Two other people, who had arrived at the same time as I had, were given jobs to do. Jenny was asked to scramble eggs and Sam was directed to make coffee.

Contemplating some words that would make a sailor blush, I was getting good and angry. Why couldn't I have gotten the job of making coffee? I didn't feel like measuring, stirring, or pouring pancake mix. I didn't know where, or how, to begin. There was a huge black grill behind me—I dared not consider that this was where the pancakes were to be cooked. Trying to curb my frustration, I decided to take a look around the club.

I saw that the only two rooms in the church were the kitchen and a large meeting room with tables and chairs. There was a serving window in the kitchen, and from where I was standing, I could easily stir the pancake batter and also peer into the other room. It was actually a very cozy setting. Besides the tables and folding chairs, there were several well-padded easy chairs, a plaid-covered love seat, and a big, square wood burning stove. With the large curtained windows, wood floors, and the lamps placed on end tables, the room had warmth and easy charm.

By this time, a few more people had wandered in. From the kitchen, I could hear the undercurrent of conversations that characterize AA get-togethers. I overheard a guy with the name of "Mountain John" talking about the long speeches some AA members give. He said, "I always tell a guy, don't tell me what you think, tell me what you know ... that'll really shorten a guy's speaking time." I smiled to myself as I continued to stir the batter.

The kitchen crew was comprised only of Jenny, Sam, Ray, and myself. In spite of the hard work, a spirit of camaraderie had overcome the four of us. Ray was now washing dishes, Jenny was frying bacon, and I was standing at the grill diligently pouring and turning rows of golden brown pancakes. All of a sudden, we began to get a profusion of orders for eggs. Sam was taking the orders and he was constantly calling out, "two over easy" or "one scrambled hard." In a one-hour period, we served breakfast to more than sixty people.

By 10:30, the cooking had ended. With a great sense of accomplishment, the kitchen crew sat down in the big room. We held a revered place in the meeting that morning. At 11:00, the AA meeting started. A newcomer talked about his fear of leaving the treatment center; another guy talked about how close his family had become since he stopped drinking and how his kids reminded him to go to meetings; a woman talked about how she had come to AA to get married and instead got sober—a much better outcome, she confessed. Laughter rippled through the room. The sharing was familiar.

No matter where you travel in AA, the feelings are universal. I felt at home. I had earned my seat that morning — not only as an alcoholic, but also as one of the cooks. There's nothing like service work in AA to make you feel that you belong.

When the meeting was over and I was heading home, I had a tremendous feeling of gratitude for the Fellowship of AA and for my sobriety. Increasingly, I can understand how vital it is to not throw in the towel because a situation is difficult or simply because it doesn't merit my approval. Often, when situations look their darkest, the sun is getting ready to shine.

I received more than I gave that morning. I also learned a lot. And I learned it all in the time it takes to make about 100 pancakes. Not a bad deal!

Steps • Traditions • Concepts

Step 11: Sought through prayer and meditation to improve our conscious contact with God as we understood Him, praying only for knowledge of His will for us and the power to carry that out.

Tradition 11: Our public relations policy is based on attraction rather than promotion; we need always maintain personal anonymity at the level of press, radio, and films.

1. Do I sometimes promote AA so fanatically that I make it seem unattractive?
2. Am I always careful to keep the confidences reposed in me as an AA member?
3. Am I careful about throwing AA names around—even within the Fellowship?
4. Am I ashamed of being a recovered, or recovering, alcoholic?
5. What would AA be like if we were not guided by the ideas in Tradition Eleven? Where would I be?
6. Is my AA sobriety attractive enough that a sick drunk would want such a quality for himself?

Concept 11: The trustees should always have the best possible committees, corporate service directors, executives, staffs, and consultants. Composition, qualifications, induction procedures, and rights and duties will always be matters of serious concern.

- Do we understand how the roles of nontrustee directors and nontrustee appointed committee members help serve and strengthen the committee system?
- How do we encourage our special paid workers to exercise their traditional "Right of Participation?"
- Do we practice rotation in all our service positions? ▲
